

Zwei Bundesräte haben das Wort

Vergleichen Sie die Reden von Bundesrat Moritz Leuenberger („Gleichheit, Freiheit, Grundversorgung“ / www.uvek.admin.ch)

The screenshot shows the website of the Department for Environment, Transport, Energy and Communication (UVEK). The page title is "Gleichheit, Freiheit, Grundversorgung". The main content is a speech by Moritz Leuenberger, dated 27.08.2007. The speech discusses the challenges of providing public services in a competitive market and the role of the state. It mentions that every day he receives post from citizens and that many complaints are not resolved because the public service is not functioning properly. He also mentions that he is very honored to be a member of the Federal Council and that he has just learned that he can receive radio and television programs for free, which is a privilege that is not available to everyone else.

und jene von Bundesrat Christoph Blocher („Hat der Wirtschaftsstandort Schweiz eine Chance?“ / www.ejpd.admin.ch).

The screenshot shows the website of the Federal Department of Justice and Police (EJPD). The page title is "Hat der Wirtschaftsstandort Schweiz eine Chance?". The main content is a speech by Christoph Blocher, dated 27.08.2007. The speech discusses the challenges of providing public services in a competitive market and the role of the state. It mentions that every day he receives post from citizens and that many complaints are not resolved because the public service is not functioning properly. He also mentions that he is very honored to be a member of the Federal Council and that he has just learned that he can receive radio and television programs for free, which is a privilege that is not available to everyone else.

- Wie sehen die beiden Bundesräte die Rolle des Staates in der Wirtschaft?
- Was ist Ihre Meinung?